

Your computer

The diagram illustrates a workflow where a local computer interacts with a cluster of remote machines. On the left, a dark red rectangle labeled 'Your computer' is connected to a cluster of ten dark red ovals on the right labeled 'Remote Machines'. A large, light gray arrow points from the remote machines back to the local computer, with the text 'SSH + job management system' positioned above it. Multiple thin black lines connect each remote machine to the tip of this large arrow, indicating individual communication channels.
